

Two fitness functions :

```
Commands + Code + Text ▶ Run all RAM Disk
Files
  ..
  .config
  sample_data
  testmatrixplustime.txt

[4] ✓ Os
f1 takes a candidate solution as input and returns the fitness of that solution in terms of objective 1 (no. faults detected)
def f1(candidate):
    # Your code goes here...
    selected_tests = fault_matrix[candidate == 1]

    if selected_tests.empty:
        return 0

    fault_data = selected_tests.drop('time', axis=1) fault_data_int = fault_data.astype(int) column_sums = fault_data_int.sum(axis=0) detected_faults_mask = column_sums > 0 num_unique_faults = detected_faults_mask.sum()

    return num_unique_faults

f1 takes a candidate solution as input and returns the fitness of that solution in terms of objective 2 (total time taken)
def f2(candidate):
    # Your code goes here...
    selected_tests = fault_matrix[candidate == 1]

    if selected_tests.empty:
        return 0

    time_column = selected_tests['time'] total_time = time_column.astype(int).sum()

    return total_time

Disk 68.45 GB available
Do not modify anything below here
```

Plot of the front of solutions :

